

Yasmeen Johnson

As a Workforce Development Manager specializing in advanced manufacturing, Yasmeen focuses on building talent pipelines, developing apprenticeship opportunities, and strengthening partnerships between employers, educators, and community organizations. With a background in the mental health industry, she brings a people-centered perspective to workforce development, emphasizing career growth, skill-building, and supportive pathways to employment. Her experience across both sectors allows her to connect industry needs with innovative workforce solutions that help individuals and businesses thrive.